THE "ROCHESTER" LAMP.

Never needs trimming; never breaks chimneys; perfectly safe; gives a pure and steady light of 65 candle power. Give it a fair trial. "It is the best and cheapest lamp, all things considered, that I ever had." Don't take any "just as good," but sold at less price; but get the genuine article. The No. 10 Mammoth, 300 candle power, is absolutely without a rival. A marvelous light for stores, balls, churchef factories, etc.; costs less than one cent per hour. Our store is lighted with the "Rochester," and we invite you to call some evening and see what a marvelous light we have.

Pocahontas and Gen. Harrison. A remarkable addition to the rapidly growing pedigree of the next President has been furnished by a Virginia genealogist who writes for the Baltimore American. This authority asserts that Gen. Harrison is the eighth great grandson of Pocahoutas. and he gives part of the line of descent, which we reduce here to its simplest terms

"The Princess Pocahontas.
"Thomas Rolph of Jamestown was her son.
"Rolph left a daughter, who married Col. Robt.

"Mrs. Bolling's only son was Major John Boll ing.
"One of John Bolling's daughters married Col. Dick Randolph of Curl's.

"Col. Dick Randolph's daughter married another

Bolling.
"Their daughter married a Harrison. (
"Their daughter married a Harrison. (

"Gen. William Henry Harrison, winth President of the United States.
"John Scott Harrison, the next President's Cather.

father.
"The next President. If there is a link anywhere in this chain that seems at all weak it is that which con nects Gen. Benjamin Harrison, the undoubt ed great grandfather of the present Benjamin Harrison, with the Randolphs. We have, therefore, provisionally marked that line in the pedigree with an interrogation point, to stand only until there is more specific information. Perhaps Brother Blaine can supply it. Very early in the present contury, a Vir-ginia historian named John Burk styled the direct descendents of Pocahontas the "imperial family of Virginia." "The virtues of mildness and humanity," said Burk, "so eminently distinguished in Pocahontas, remain in the nature of an inheritance to her posterity. There is scarcely a scion from this stock which has not been, in the high-est degree, amiable and respectable." Burk also prophesied that the descendants of Pocahontas would long be prominent in public gining and ending with the lines:

"O! woe is me, that I should love and conceal, And dare not reveal."
But not only that. The descent from Pocahontas puts General Harrision into the relation of consinship with all of that numerous and imposing aggregation of collateral branches which constitutes the imperial family of Virginia. Blood is thicker than water, and the name of the next President's cousins living between the upper Potomac and the Dismal Swamp is legion. Among them we only mention, in tabulated form, for convenience of reference:

A GOLD, HUNTING CASE, STEM-WINDING "First Families of Virginia" which are linked with Gen. Harrison's rapidly growing pedigree. Returns are always slow in coming in from Virginia, and the potentialities of enlargement in this interesting schedule of imperial cousins are such that Col. Elijah W. Halford may well pause and view with alarm the Pocobontas outlook. The Potomac river is not very wide at Washington, nor is it impassable at any time of year. Col. Dan Lamont never had any such family complications to deal with, and Elijah's tact, genealogical knowledge, and courtiness of personal manner will be put to the severest strain when the kinsmen begin to cross Long bridge. But it is not yet definitely settled that the granddaughter of Col Dick Randolph of Carl's did in fact marry a Harrison. -N. Y.
